

INFORMATION RETRIEVAL AND DISPLAY DEVICE AND SYSTEM

Abstract

The present invention provides a device and method for providing a user with location-specific information. The information provided includes directory services, news services, geographical information, advertisements, and more. The present invention also provides a device for accessing the information conveniently and for storing and sending retrieved information as well as providing a mechanism for acting upon information received such as, for example, dialing a phone number or engaging with a virtual environment.